U. S. Troops Will Farm Near Camps in Britain

Last year the British army cultivated 7,500 acres and provided enough fruits and vegetables to feed 10 divisions. The American soldiers are expected to save the Allies 50,000 tons of shipping in 1943.

Gypsies Give Up Roving, Go to Work

Hundreds Are Employed in California Fields.

FRESNO, CALIF.—Migrants are fleeing north to California, but the migrants haven't always been fresh gypsies.

Now, however, more than 200 gypsies of the non-fortune-telling variety are settled in the San Joaquin valley. All of them are working in the production of war crops for the food-for-freedom program to have their palms crossed with silver.

More gypsies are expected to arrive soon, ordered to this area by Louis Mort, farm labor co-ordinator for the Federal Government in California. He said that these gypsies are being employed in the production of war crops for the food-for-freedom program to have their palms crossed with silver.

The surrender of Pantelleria, after 20 days of intense bombardment was announced in a special communique from General Eisenhower's headquarters. The announcement came suddenly, less than an hour after the U. S. regular operational communique had merely reported that the island was under attack.

Surrender of Pantelleria gives the Allies an airbase and naval base only 60 miles southwest of Sicily. The fall of Lampedusa gave protection to this point.

The strength of Allied air power is obvious on the scene here; but may not yet be at the peak needed for a major continental invasion.

IN RIGHT DIRECTION
From Greensboro News
Planting of 8,000 pine trees on the farms of Elmer and Stewart Campbell, of High Plains, brings the total of such plantings for a year in Person County to 15,000.

We wish we had before us the record for the entire state. Not that we would expect to find that there is any in North Carolina had done as well as Person; but that there is a sound reason why most of the 100 counties should not have there is certainly enough of land going to waste to care for many times the number of pine trees and most of it can be put to no better use.

Encouraging as are reports of replantings, however, much remains to be done in the way of systematic promotion. It may be that the time has come to the operators of sawmills that they must accept the responsibility for their swaths of destruction. It is certainly in order for the department of conservation and development to devote some of its thought and plans to advertising the need for reforestation and to show how it may be done profitably.

TAX CONFUSION
It seems to us that the federal government has spruced a tax law that is hopeless confusion. Not one of its provisions is clear. Not one of its provisions is clear. Not one of its provisions is clear.
